permanent circulation in Washington three times larger than that of any other paper in the city. As a local NEWS paper and Advertising Medium it has no competitor. After a rather sympathetic fashion the New York Sun calls the attention of its readers to the fact that residents of the District of Columbia have neither the opportunity nor the did not cover an actual loss had been returned. power to exercise the American privilege of The line is already blocked by a farm owner, voting into or out of office those who reign over | who has refused the right of way to the trolley them, that all legislation for the District issues line, and this land should be acquired by the from Congress, and that not a dollar of the state at once. Nothing but a heroic remedy money raised by the taxation of the residents of this city can come out of the treasury even to supply our most urgent needs without the consent and direction of the national legislature. The allegations are, undeniably true, but even in this voteless territory the law of ensation operates to allay to some extent discontent with conditions that have, it must be admitted, a slavish and un-American appearance. So far as the mere municipal government is concerned, leaving out of consideration lack of representation in Congress and the electoral college, universal suffrage is not absolutely demanded by American principles, and in our other large cities it has been accompanied by political purulence and municipal rottenness. Many of these suffer from factional disturbance, from councilmanic truculence and aldermanic dishonesty of the most shameless type, from partisan dicker- had to be preserved intect against such deings, in which the last of the things considered structive doctrines, as it was alleged, Dr. Briggs

ings, in which the last of the things considered are the rights of the taxpayers, and from a host of minor yet disgusting evils common in cities where "the free and enlightened voter" sells his ballot to the highest bidder or else uses it to be deposed from the ministry, or suspended from the exercise the ministry, or suspended from the exercise of the ministry, or suspended from the exercise that the ministry of suspended fr work the political destruction of some conscientious individual, who has dared speak the truth as to those dwelling in high places and who do continually travel on the highway which is attractively smooth, sufficiently broad and invariably, if not visibly, downward in its invariably, if not visibly downward in its invariable. tendency. Of these things and their concomitants Washington knows practically nothing. Legislatively we are governed by Congress, one that would admit such utterances as and, although some of the congressional acts are far from wise, and once in a while manifeetly unfair to the voteless, still there fo less ground for complaint than might be expected. Pentateuch, but it was evident that such senti-In the executive sense we are governed by the President of the United States, who acts, as a majority, who considered that a crisis had rule, through three appointed Commissioners, generally men of unquestioned probity. The Sun says that, "as the city has few industries and very little local wealth, the assumption by the nation generally of the big deficit in its annual running expenses has some decided advantages." There is no deficit. Under the terms of a congressionally made agreement, which this city could do nothing other than accept, it was decided that the general government should appropriate annually from the national purse one-half of the District expenditures, the other half being raised by taxation in the District; an equitable arrangement in view of the obligations sesumed by the government when five sevenths of the original site of the city were donated to It, and in view of the fact that it still owns onehalf of the area of the capital and this half pays no taxes. But Congress has violated the spirit of this contract on more than one occasion. Instead of duplicating the amount raised by taxation Congress shaves the estimates down to the lowest possible figures, appropriates the smallest amount it thinks the District can exist upon and applies the large and locally contribnceded imperfections in order that the Disbrict might have some enforceable law upon which to depend. The city's complaint after ision in the Nau case was that no cerain law regulating the sale of liquor, backed by a penalty to insure its enforcement, exfated in the District of Columbia, and Con-gress was implored to pass something, or any-thing in the shape of a law to meet this keenlyfelt want. If it shall turn out from the decision of the Court of Appeals that Congress in attempting to respond to this appeal go into operation until the first of Nober, and leaves the present concededly Impotent law in force until that date, congress evidently made a dismal failure of its efforts to supply the District with Immediately and urgently needed legislation. The new law was passed primarily to give a penalty backbone to liquor legislation. Its first ffect was to knock the few remaining fragments of penalty backbone out of the old law, under decision that the old penalties could no longer be enforced; and it is now virtually contended that the repealing and penalty clauses of the new law do not themselves become operative until next November.

Near the intersection of Seventh street and Pennsylvania avenue is a fountain which, years But it's plain that in this way he's safer by farago, was presented to this city by a man whose ves could not have been otherwise than good. Spasmodic efforts have been made to supply the thirsty with water that, during summer days, should be palatably cool, but most of them failed utterly within a day or two. It would seem though this neglected fountain offered a great opportunity to those good people who so forcibly and persistently advocate total abstinence from intoxicating liquors. An ample supply of pure and chilly water, dispensed without money and without price, will do much for the cause of temperance.

The position of the world's fair concessionsire who has a man arrested for using a camera is a good deal like that of the court who has a Chinaman up for non-registration. The offense may be clearly established, but the provisions for punishment are rather hazy.

Mr. Sulzer of New York points with pride to the fact that he is a little over thirty years old, and therefore the youngest acting governor the state ever had. It was hoped that the infant prodigy idea would at least refrain from breakthe heart to scold him. He was engaged in a ing into politics. Pennsylvania's attorney general has notified Pennsylvania's legislature that he knows of no ction the state can take which could prevent the invasion of the Gettysburg battlefield by the trofley company that has been adjusting the landscape to fit its tracks, yet while that opinion was being delivered a ready writer on the editorial staff of the Philadelphia Inquirer was pointing out a way that ought to be plain enough even to the state's attorney general. After admitting that the line-marking commission appointed by the Secretary of War has no present power to check the vandalism, the inquirer proceeds to support the stand THE STAR took when the matter was first laid before the public, viz, that the primary remedy is in the hands of the state. The Inquirer suggests that whatever rights the trolley company enjoys have been acquired from the owners of the land and were probably well paid for, but there was nothing in the transfer that affected the right of the state to t may now secure possession of a cross section of land running from east to west, from the Union line to the confederate line, and thus head off the trolley company by cutting its line in two parts, thus making the operation of sotemporary, "that the state of Pennsylvania fight.-Chicago Dispatch. d not the United States government must be

be possible to save prominent landmarks from destruction. With the legislature still in session and state officials ready to take such action as can be lawfully taken it should be an easy matter for Pennsylvania to acquire a wedge of land, a quarter or half mile wide, bisecting the field. If the proceedings were begun at once it would put a stop to the grading and blasting until terms were arranged under which the trolley line could go on. In acquiring any cross section of land the state would acquire also any rights vested in the trolley line, and these would have to be compensated for. The right to build could then be withheld until this sum or such part of it as will avail, and the remedy suggested is the only one that has any chance of success. The cost would be small in comparison with the cost of acquiring the entire field." The legislature should not hesitate to act upon the suggestion, for while the authorities delay the invading corporation is tearing down and building up with all possible rapidity.

If the expressions of the great majority of those who spoke in the General Assembly this morning under the "three-minute" rule is indicative of the final judgment of the Assembly, there is little doubt that Dr. Briggs or his teachings, or both, will be condemned by the Assembly. Among those who spoke today only about one in ten spoke in favor of not sustaining the appeal The sentiment that prevailed was that the faith assembly were men who pleaded for a broader those of Dr. Briggs, and that would not regard it as absolutely essential to the faith that a man should not doubt that Moses wrote the arisen in which they must act decidedly or else cut the old Presbyterian ship forever loose from its moorings.

The damage done a little girl bicyclist yesterday evening by a careless wheelman once more directs attention to a variety of traffic which, in this city at least, is practically uncontrolled. There is law which is supposed to regulate speed, to define the right of way and to protect the properly-moving public. It should be operated to the discouragement of those who transgress the rules of the road and with especial force when there is added to that transgression the injury of an innocent person and the cowardice of running away, leaving the victim helpiess and prostrate. More than a mere majority of local cyclists are cautious, but there are many who have no thought for any one, and these should be shaken up as frequently as they misbehave.

Count the loss of profits on goods distributed during THE "OPENING" WEEK OF A NEW SEASON AT THE PALAIS BOYAL AND YOU WILL READILY SEE THAT THE SOUVENIBS ACTUALLY COST THE PROPRIETOR THOUSANDS OF DOLLARS.

THE presentation to each visitor of a handsome card or sancy article would be far less expensive souvenirs of these "Opening" occasions, though to the nonthinking they may appear otherwise. However, the fittest only survive. Those who erstwhile attracted with these trivial souvenirs have bowed to popular non-appreciation. But the souvenirs of the Palais Royal occasions have grown so in favor year by year that this, the fifteenth "Opening" of Summer Furnishings, is chronicled in the news columns of the papers as an event of passing interest.

THE List of Souvenies is being duly appreciated by regular patrons. It is only necessary to inform late residents that "the list" contains the plain, unvarnished truth. And truth often needs explanation. For instance, when you learn that the Palais Royal's 40c Waists are reduced to 40c, you may think the reduction a petty one, not worthy of record. But, when you understand that these Waists are modeled after Fisk , Clark & Flagg's expensive novelty waist, when you discover they are made of superior figured Percale and Lawas, and when you further learn the Prevailing Price is 75 cents you know that 49 cents is so low a price that a further reduction of three cents is really great though apparently small.

THERE are some items we will not place on the list of souvenirs, because the prices seem too wonderful for belief. Such are the Striped India Silks at 39c instead of 6Sc yard and the Figured Silks at 49c instead of $1 yard. Of course these are supplementary to regular stock-a meteor-like souvenir, that is gone before the slow-going are aware of its existence.
